THE South-Carolina Gazette.

From MONDAY April 15th, to MONDAY April 22d, 1751.

His MAJESTY's moſt gracious SPEECH to both Houſes of Parliament, on Thurſday the 17*th Day of* January, 1750.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I HAVE poſtpon'd your Meeting to this Time, that I might conſult your private Convenience, as far as was conſiſtent with the Occaſions of the Public. The Continuance of the preſent tranquillity has afforded an Opportunity for the former, and render'd the latter leſs preſſing. Since the laſt ſeſſion, my Care and Attention have been conſtantly employ'd in improving this ſituation: And I have the ſatisfaction to acquaint you, that I have concluded a Treaty with my good Brother the King of Spain, whereby ſuch particular Differences, as, from the Nature of them could not be ſettled in a general Treaty, have been amicably adjuſted, without the Intervention of any other Party; and the Commerce of my Subjects with that Country re-eſtabliſh'd upon the moſt advantageous and ſure Foundations.

In the Progreſs of this Work, I have receiv'd ſuch Aſſurances of the ſincere Diſpoſition of the Catholic King, to cement and maintain the moſt perfect Union with me, as leave no room to doubt of its good Effects being felt in all Parts; and there is the greateſt reaſon to hope, that the ancient Friendſhip and good Correſpondence between the two Nations, which had been long unfortunately interrupted, will, from mutual intereſt and inclination, be now effectually reſtor'd.

I have alſo, in conjunction with the Empreſs Queen, and the States General, concluded a Treaty with the Elector of Bavaria; and am taking ſuch further meaſures, as may beſt tend to ſtrengthen and ſecure the tranquillity of the empire; ſupport its ſyſtem; and timely prevent ſuch events, as have been found by experience to endanger the common cauſe; involve Europe in the calamities of war; and occaſion the loſs of much blood and treaſure to my own kingdoms.

Both theſe treaties ſhall be laid before you: And, as I have told you the views with which I have enter'd into them, I muſt do juſtice to all the other contracting powers in the definitive treaty of Aix la-Chapelle, by acquainting you, that I have receiv'd from them the moſt full and clear declarations of their reſolution to preſerve the general peace.

That nothing might be wanting for theſe ſalutary purpoſes, I have taken care to ſtrengthen and conſolidate the ties of union and friendſhip between me and my allies; the better to ſecure our mutual intereſt, maintain the peace already ſubſiſting, and to prevent the occaſion of any future rupture. And, that there might remain no doubt of the uprightneſs and ſincerity of my intentions, I have made the proper communications of the meaſures I have taken, and the principles on which they have been founded.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

I have ordered eſtimates to be laid before you, for the current ſervice of the year. I deſire only ſuch ſupplies, as ſhall be neceſſary for your own ſecurity, and making good ſuch engagements as have been contracted, and are now communicated to you. The ſucceſsful and happy progreſs, which has been made in the reduction of the intereſt of the national debt, does great honour to this parliament, and adds much to our reputation in foreign countries. So little of this great work remains unfiniſh'd, that I make no doubt of your compleating it this ſeſſion, in the moſt juſt and equitable manner.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I have nothing further to recommend to you in particular: Let me exhort you in general, to make the beſt uſe of the preſent ſtate of tranquillity, for improving the trade and commerce of my kingdoms; for enforcing the execution of the laws; and for ſuppreſſing thoſe outrages and violences, which are inconſiſtent with all good order and government, and endanger the lives and properties of my ſubjects; whoſe happineſs, and flouriſhing condition, I have entirely at Heart.

The humble ADDRESS of the Right Honourable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled, preſented to his Majeſty, on Friday the 18*th Day of* January, 1750.

Moſt gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal ſubjects, the Lords ſpiritual and temporal in parliament aſſembled, return your Majeſty our humble thanks for your moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne.

Your majeſty's paternal care, always watchful for the proſperity of your kingdoms, and mix'd with a generous extenſive concern for the common welfare of Europe, has appear'd in nothing more, than in your unwearied endeavours to improve the preſent ſtate of tranquillity: This muſt be evident to all the world, from the ſeries of important tranſactions which your majeſty has been pleaſed to lay before us; and it is with the utmoſt thankfulneſs, we acknowledge your goodneſs in communicating to us, that the treaty has been ſo ſucceſsfully concluded between your majeſty, and the king of Spain. As the commerce of theſe kingdoms is the ſource of the wealth of your ſubjects, and of the ſtrength and ſplendor of your ſubjects, and of the ſtrength and ſplendor of your crown, ſo your majeſty's attention to re eſtabliſh our trade with that country, on the moſt advantageous conditions, is a freſh inſtance of your uninterrupted vigilance for the moſt eſſential concerns of your people. Mutual intereſt and mutual inclinations are the beſt foundations of a laſting amity and good correſpondence, which, from the concurrence of ſuch motives, we firmly hope will be happily reſtor'd between the two nations in all parts; and that theſe cauſes, which have long interrupted them, are now effectually removed.

Your royal wiſdom has not been confined to the adjuſting of preſent differences, and the remedying of inconveniencies actually exiſting: It is with pleaſure we obſerve, that your foreſight is exerting itſelf to ſecure us, as far as can be done by human prudence, againſt ſuch events as have formerly involv'd Europe in the calamities of war. In this view we look upon the treaty, which your majeſty has lately concluded with the elector of Bavaria, and the further meaſures which you are graciouſly pleaſed to inform us, are carrying on for ſecuring the tranquillity, and ſupporting the ſyſtem of the empire. Nothing can tend more to effectuate theſe meaſures, than the ſtrengthening and conſolidating the ties of union and friendſhip between your majeſty and your allies; which cannot fail at the ſame time to be attended with the beſt conſequences for promoting our mutual intereſts, preſerving the general repoſe, and preventing the occaſion of any future rupture.

We are truly ſenſible of your majeſty's goodneſs, in laying before us, theſe your ſalutary views and intentions. In the proſecution of them the weight and influence of the crown of Great Britain are very viſible; and we do with the greateſt chearfulneſs aſſure your majeſty, of our ſteady and zealous ſupport in all ſuch meaſures, as may beſt anſwer theſe deſirable ends.

Our unſhaken duty and affection to your ſacred perſon, and our love of our country, are the ſureſt pledges of our conduct. It ſhall be our firſt care to demonſtrate our inviolable adherence to theſe principles; nor ſhall any thing be wanting on our part, to advance the trade and flouriſhing condition of theſe kingdoms; to enforce the obſervance of the laws, and of good order amongſt your people; and to maintain the dignity and ſtrength of your majeſty's crown and government both at home and abroad.

His MAJESTY's moſt gracious ANSWER.

My LORDS,

I RETURN you my hearty thanks for this dutiful and affectionate addreſs. The ſatisfaction you have ſo unanimouſly expreſs'd in the treaties I have lately concluded, and the meaſures which I am purſuing, gives me the greateſt pleaſure. I entirely rely on your zeal and ſupport, in bringing them to perfection, for the welfare of my own kingdoms, and the general tranquillity of Europe.

The Humble ADDRESS of the Houſe of Commons to the KING.

Moſt gracious Sovereign,

WE your majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal ſubjects, the commons of Great-Britain in parliament aſſembled, return your majeſty our ſincere and hearty thanks for your moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne.

We beg leave to congratulate your majeſty, on your ſafe and happy return to theſe kingdoms; and to expreſs the warmeſt acknowledgments of our gratitude, for your majeſty's unwearied endeavours to eſtabliſh the preſent tranquillity upon the ſureſt foundations.

We congratulate your majeſty on the concluſion of a treaty with the king of Spain, by which the particular differences, that, from the nature of them, could not be ſettled in a general treaty, are now amicably adjuſted; and we feel the moſt real ſatisfaction at the reaſon there is to hope, from the aſſurances which your majeſty has received, of the ſincere diſpoſition of the catholic king to cement and maintain the moſt perfect union with your majeſty, that the ancient friendſhip will be reſtored and an uninterrupted good correſpondence ſubſiſt between the two nations, to their mutual advantage and happineſs.

We reſpectfully acknowledge your majeſty's great wiſdom and foreſight, in taking the beſt meaſures timely to prevent ſuch events, as might hereafter involve Europe in the calamities of war; and we have the beſt grounded hopes, from the full and clear declaration of all the contracting powers in the definitive treaty of Aix la Chapelle, as well as from your majeſty's care and attention to ſtrengthen the ties of union and friendſhip between your majeſty and your allies, that we ſhall long enjoy the bleſſings of a general peace.

We aſſure your majeſty, that we will chearfully raiſe ſuch ſupplies, as ſhall be found neceſſary for the ſecurity of your majeſty's government, and to make good the engagements entered into by your majeſty for the public benefit, and according to your gracious intention communicated to this houſe.

It is with the greateſt ſatisfaction that we receive your majeſty's gracious approbation of the progreſs already made towards reducing the intereſt of the national debt; and we aſſure your majeſty, that we will uſe our immediate endeavours to finiſh that great work with juſtice and equity.

Your faithful commons beg leave to expreſs their ſenſe of the happineſs they enjoy under your majeſty's government; and to aſſure your majeſty, that they are determined to give all poſſible attention to whatever may promote the trade and commerce of theſe kingdoms: and that they will endeavour to render the laws more effectual, by enforcing their execution, thereby to diſcourage and ſuppreſs the outrages and enormities committed in defiance of them.
